

POWER IS THE GOAL

For a group of workers to have collective power on the job, they need participation on three levels:

1. One or more leaders who put thought into what's happening at work, speak up, and propose action.
2. A normally small group of co-workers who work with and assist the leaders.
3. The support of most or all of the rest of the work group.

